

Photography Session Information & Policies

Please note: the purpose of this document is to provide general guidance. Session-specific details, availability, pricing, and delivery arrangements during the booking process and will be adjusted to follow convention or venue rules.

Booking and Sessions

Photography sessions can be requested through the booking form on the Rocky Digital Media website. The form collects the information needed to review the request, including the convention, preferred contact method, participant details, and any initial session ideas. A submitted request is reviewed before the session details are confirmed. Session pricing, length, and location may vary depending on the convention, type of photography requested, group size, available time, and location if necessary. Sessions normally take place at public convention areas or at another agreed-upon location near the convention no more than 10 feet of the convention unless said otherwise. Indoor or outdoor (or both) locations may be considered based on convention rules, weather, lighting, accessibility, safety, and everyone's comfort. Booking as early as possible is encouraged because convention schedules can fill quickly, although later requests may be considered when time remains available. Last minute booking is allowed but can have a impact on timing, session length and location.

Group photography sessions are welcome, and owning a fursuit is not required. When requesting a group session, clients should provide an approximate participant count so enough time and space can be planned; At this time, pose are allowed but must be communicated with me (the photographer) and any people in the group.

Conventions

The Booking page lists the conventions currently available for photography requests. Attendance and session availability can change, so the listed schedule should be checked before submitting a request. Photography at a convention that is not currently listed may be requested through the Contact page, but attendance or availability cannot be guaranteed until RockyTheDog confirms it.

If a convention is canceled, rescheduled, or moved, affected bookings will be reviewed. We will use the contact information provided with the booking to discuss whether the session can be rescheduled, transferred, adjusted, or canceled. Convention and venue decisions may affect photography locations, timing, and availability. Pricing adjustments, and partial or full refunds can be requested if this happens and only I (RockyTheDog) can decide if the participants and/or client are eligible for a refund whether it is full or partial.

Clients who expect to be late should contact RockyTheDog via Telegram as soon as possible. Depending on the remaining schedule, a late session may need to be shortened, moved to another available time if one is available, or canceled so other confirmed sessions are not delayed or canceled so it fair for others. Requests to move a session during the convention will be considered when another suitable time is available. If location would need to be changed for whatever reason, you have 24hrs to request the change, with exception, of me reaching out and notifying the customer of the change.

Photos and Delivery

The expected delivery timeline, delivery method, and approximate number of finished photographs be approximate of 24-72hrs of when the photo was taken. These details may vary based on the length and type of session, the number of usable images, the convention workload, and the editing required. Finished files will be delivered through the method confirmed with the client. (alternate methods are allow)

If the person is solo, select amount of photo will be taken and each photo will be reviewed in person and any disliked photo will be deleted.

Clients may share their delivered photographs on social media for personal, noncommercial use unless a separate agreement states otherwise. Credit to Rocky Digital Media or RockyTheDog is requested whenever practical, and visible copyright marks should not be removed or obscured. Commercial use, resale, redistribution, or use by third parties requires prior permission.

Privacy and Publishing

When booking a session with me (Rocky), you have the right to request your photo remain private. Copyright label will still be issued regardless of how the photos are shared by the person, the only exception that the photo will not be shared on the website or any of my social media unless tagged by the said person.

A request to remove a published photograph can be submitted through the Contact page. The request should identify the photograph and explain the connection to the person making the request so it can be reviewed promptly. We have the right to remove, hide or delete any photos if the user is involved in any scheme, illegal actions or misconduct. Furthermore, we can remove content from platforms as it controls but may not be able to remove copies that other people have already shared or saved.

Personal information provided through booking or contact forms is used to communicate, plan the session, and deliver the agreed photography services. Photographs and personal information will not be sold or provided to third parties for unrelated purposes without permission, except when required to operate the service, follow platform or venue requirements, or comply with state law in which the photo were taken or where the service was provided.

Accessibility and Comfort

Rocky Digital Media aims to create a relaxed, respectful photography experience. Clients who feel nervous or camera-shy can ask for guidance with posing, positioning, or interacting with the camera. The session can begin gradually, and clients are encouraged to communicate what helps them feel comfortable. Note, all photos are final and unless communicated otherwise, no retake will be offered.

A handler, friend, or assistant may join the session when space, venue rules, and the session plan allow. Accessibility requirements should be included in the booking request so location, timing, communication, and movement needs can be considered in advance. Rocky Digital Media will work with the client to identify reasonable arrangements within the limits of the convention and venue.

Breaks are welcome, especially during fursuit sessions. Heat, visibility, mobility, hydration, and personal comfort should always take priority over completing a pose or staying on a rigid schedule. Anyone may ask to pause or stop the session if they feel uncomfortable or unsafe. If session is stop before the time is over, whatever photo is taken will be edited and delivered unless said otherwise.

Questions: If a topic is not covered here, use the Contact page to reach me or my team. Final arrangements will be confirmed directly before the photography session.
